New Boston Culprits.—Three New Boston culprits—two men and a woman—were before Justice Randolph H. Chandler in Thompson on charges of having committed a breach of the peace. The hearing of the case was adjourned.

Will Conduct Retreat.—Missionary priests will come to St. Mary's parish during the Lenten season to conduct retreat for the English speaking people of the parish. Pigeon Shoot.

In Thompson Christmas morning near the residence of Frank L. Herdick there is expected a number of local crack shots will take part.

Five Companies Made Consolidate.—There is to be a meeting here today (Friday) of the stockholders of the Morse and Powhatan mills to see if they will ratify the action of the directors of the companies in voting to bring about the local voluntary dissolution of the corporations.

Fire Companies Made Consolidate.—There is talk among the firemen about the consolidation of Proctor and Mansfield hose companies—making one big company to operate with the automobile fire truck that is expected here soon after the first of the year.

Good Christmas Trade.—Putnam business men, in a number of cases, report a satisfactory Christmas trade. The real rush did not begin, however, until Thursday afternoon, when most of the stores were kept very busy.

Arrangements are being made at the public institute to give the children an abundant Christmas dinner, as has become the annual custom. Inmates in some of the institutions are also to be remembered by relatives and friends.

INQUIRY FROM MISS DUFFY.—Fall River woman things dead man was her father.

Prosecuting Attorney Arthur S. Macdonald has a letter from Miss Catherine Duffy of Fall River in which she makes inquiry about her father, who, she sets forth, has disappeared. She indicates that she believes he may have been the man whose body was taken from a mill trench here last summer and was later buried unidentified.

Miss Duffy says that her father came here a short time before the body was found and worked in a mill just a few days before the body was found. He decided to leave here and go to Putnam and in second place, coming place and baggage sent there for him was never claimed.

Possibly Miss Duffy may be right in her suspicion that the body of the man found here was that of her father, but the chances are that it was someone else. The body found was that of a younger man than she describes her father to have been. There are all too many bodies in the mill trench to local officials who have given attention to that matter that she is on the wrong trail and that her father may yet be found alive.

The belief still prevails here that the body found was that of a man who had lived in Attawapung and who has not been seen since about two weeks before the body was found.

UNDUTIFUL SON.—Cyrus Norton Given 240 Days in Jail for Assaulting His Mother and Stealing Her Watch.

Cyrus Norton of Dayville, who pleaded guilty Wednesday morning in the town court to assaulting his mother and stealing a gold watch she had in her possession, was sentenced Thursday. On the assault charge he was given 180 days and on the theft of the watch 60 days more. He will be called upon to pay the costs of prosecution also, so will be a guest of the county until 1915. His case was one of two disposed of so far this month in the town court, which has not been at all active since the end of the license period, but which has had some bad cases in the few that developed.

War Tax Without Grumbling.—The emergency tax act is now being fully observed in Danielson and vicinity, so far as can be learned. The various denominations and in desired quantities. A look through the stores during the holiday shopping days will demonstrate that the merchants have complied, as required, with the regulations for stamping various kinds of merchandise. The pennies being collected on bills of lading are being paid regularly and there seems to be no inclination to avoid paying the extra cent collected on toll line telephone calls on which the charge is 15 cents and over. The people are acting very nice and over the fact that a great many of them profess not to like at all.

Taking Parish Census.—Rev. M. J. Ginet, M. S., and his assistant priests are engaged in taking the annual census of St. James' parish, the work being nearly completed. Making the enumeration takes them not only throughout Danielson, but to Elmville, Killingly Center, East Killingly, South Killingly, all of the towns of Brooklyn and Hampton, sections of the local church.

James Blake.—James Blake, 31, died at his home on High street last Wednesday night. He had been a resident of this city for many years, and before retiring from active work a number of years ago was employed in a local mill. He was well known in the city. He leaves a daughter.

"Rolls of Honor" Wholesale.—The war has created another new line of business in England. Some of the "studios" which normally are occupied in designing advertisements for business houses have had slack times since the war. But of late they have been doing quite a brisk trade in designing "rolls of honor" for the same clients. The studio supplies the firm with a picture of the soldier or sailor. The standard price of these rolls of honor is, we are told, two guineas.—Manchester Guardian.

DETAILS OF SEA BATTLE OFF FALKLAND ISLANDS German Squadron Was on Its Way to Take the Islands and Was Taken Unawares.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Dec. 17.—The German cruisers sent to the bottom off the Falkland islands on December 8 apparently were taken unawares by the British, at a time when neither side was expecting an encounter. The first detailed accounts of the battle, which reached here today from Puerto Gallegos, Patagonia, say that the Germans were on their way to seize the Falkland islands, British possessions, when they came unexpectedly upon a lone British warship. The German cruisers were aware of the strength of their opponents these ships closed in on them and the fate of Admiral Von Spee's squadron was soon sealed.

Germans Fought Bravely.—The story of the battle was told by passengers on the British steamer Orissa, which arrived at Punta Arenas, from Callao, Chile. They say that the Germans fought bravely to the end even the coilers refusing to surrender. Some of the British were placed at eight men.

Formidable British Squadron.—It was a formidable British squadron which faced the Germans. Included in it were the battleships Albatross, the battle cruisers Invincible and Inflexible and the cruisers Kent, Cornwall, Carnarvon, Bristol and Glasgow, far outnumbered in strength the German squadron, consisting of the five cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Leipzig, Nürnberg and Dresden.

The British squadron arrived at Port Stanley, Falkland islands, on December 7, to take on supplies. The "next morning" the Caropus, which was guarding the entrance to the port, sighted a hostile warship. Four others quickly came into view and were recognized as the squadron of Admiral Von Spee. The German ships had left the Chilean islands of Juan Fernandez, on November 15, for the Falkland islands, to take possession of the islands and destroy the wireless station.

Only the Canopus was visible at first to the Germans who steamed straight at her. The Canopus opened fire and other British warships rushed to her assistance.

The Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig formed in battle line. The Nürnberg and Dresden, however, dropped back from the firing line. In Scharnhorst's crew cheered as they went down.

The British warships concentrated their fire on the Scharnhorst, which sank after an hour's fighting. When it became evident that the Scharnhorst, Admiral Von Spee's flagship, was doomed her crew assembled on the forward deck. The Scharnhorst refused to surrender and soon plunged beneath the waves. The crew preserved its formation as the ship went down and cheered as the waters closed about them.

Glasgow Sank Leipzig.—The Glasgow engaged the Leipzig and sank her. The Gneisenau went down 80 miles from Port Stanley. The Nürnberg attempted to escape but after a pursuit of two hours was sunk.

The Carnarvon pursued the Dresden but was not swift enough to overhaul her and the German warship escaped.

British Picked Up 194 Germans.—After the battle the British picked up 194 Germans, including a few officers. Of these survivors 100 were from the crews of the two German colliers. An opportunity to surrender was offered the colliers, but it was refused and they were sunk.

The cruiser Cornwall was damaged slightly below the waterline. None of the other British warships was damaged.

On December 10 funeral services were held for the eight British sailors who were killed, in the presence of the commanders and crews of the squadron.

The British admiralty report of the battle stated that only seven men of the British squadron lost their lives.

Many Willing to Aid.—As for the boom in the Clyde ship-building industry alleged to have been caused by the destruction of the Empden, Germany will be glad at any time to contribute further to British prosperity in the same manner.—Springfield Republican.

Lyme, Clarke Voorhees and family will leave during the week for several weeks' stay in Lenox, Mass.

Germany in 1913 had 388 companies operating 2,118 miles of street railways.
